Natalie Frank

Cacophonous paintings.

Miles McEnery Gallery, 520 West 21st Street; through July 22.

Natalie Frank is known for her wildly fecund tangles of images, people, creatures, and more. Here, she presents us with her haunted and enchanted pictures for an Edgar Allan Poe story. The results are chimerical thickets, nocturnally illuminated slender lines, and unexpected pictorial gardens that all grow into a grand vision of Heaven, Earth, and modern life.
